WELCOME TO DAY 3
OF OUR 45th DAYTONA

I personally rejoice with each of you as you put forth a great team effort on Thursday in the 2012 Daytona Soulwinning Missions Outreach. Our goal for the day was 180. We asked God by his grace and power to make each team determined to give their best for the Saviour. We had 426 saved today.

What a miracle!!!!

While we rejoice together we must not, we cannot, rest on our laurels for today. We don't know if we have tomorrow or even if we have all of the day today. The weather could change and the people leave the beaches.

I want you to know that today is a very hard day. You will be tired from yesterday. Maybe you have sunburn and windburn, tired feet or legs, discouraged, or feel you are being rejected. Even though you must combat the enemy on every front today I would remind you that greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world.

God is challenging each of you to dig down a little deeper today than you did yesterday and put forth today in His power and strength an effort that will even surprise yourself. In fact there can be only one explanation for such an effort at the end of the day today. It will be that God did it through you as you made yourself available as a clean vessel today.

I remind you that we are not here for a vacation, to sight see, or even to get a sun tan. We are here to win souls and that is all.

Let's go forth today in God's power, God's grace, God's strength, God's leadership, as we spread forth God's Word, especially the gospel message.

JESUS SAVES!

May we all, like we did yesterday, with one voice at the end of the day today resound the triumphant refrain, "TO GOD BE THE GLORY GREAT THINGS HE HATH DONE."

Testimonies

Jessica Newcomb - I started out with a very discouraging day. I decided to walk boldly up to a group of college students. I told one of them about the Lord and she said she was saved, but it didn't sound sincere. Instead of talking another student I walked away. My team members asked me why I walked away when there were more lost souls in that group. I started thinking. God revealed to me that I didn't do what He asked me. Then I walked back to the back of the truck and found five students that I was able to lead through the plan of salvation and all five were saved. I was glad that I obeyed God and walked back to the truck.

Morgan Walls - I had just finished talking to someone and was heading down to the beach, when I heard some yell, "Hey". My instinct told me to turn around and I saw a man and his wife beckoning me to come over. I went over and sat down beside them and ask how I could help them. The man said, "I have been feeling a void in my life and I heard that Christians knew what could fill it. I know by the way you are dressed you must be a Christian."

God allowed me the privilege of letting him know that Jesus Christ could fill that void in his life. After sharing the plan of salvation the man, his wife, and two children were saved. That just goes to show us that setting ourselves apart from the world brings great reward and makes a big difference.

Ruth Holliday - My testimony is about the opportunity that God has given me. Being gathered here with a group of like minded Christians is a very rewarding experience. I know that I and we are commanded to spread the Gospel. But, it is a comfort, it is an encouragement to gather together with other Christians that share that conviction. In coming to Daytona I wasn't sure what to expect. But, I received a great gift and blessing, "Conviction". Conviction to live my life with Christ first, others second and myself last.

Bill Blount - My team and I have a habit of leaving myself behind. That means that I normally don't get to eat my snacks on time. My team captain, Mrs. Crystal, called my cell and told me snack time was in 15 minutes and to start making my way back. While I was walking I saw a woman sitting alone. At first, I debated whether to catch up with my team or stop to talk with her. The Lord prompted me to talk with her. When I finished showing her the plan of salvation she gladly accepted the Christ as her Saviour. Even though she was Hispanic she understood English quite well. She was excited when I asked if I could speak to her children. God used me to lead her two children to Christ. Then, she wanted me to talk to her husband and brother too. My mind was distracted by the thought of eating my snack, but I couldn't waste the opportunity. Her cousin wasn't interested but her brother accepted Christ. As her brother was filling out the information on our soul-winning card I mention to Leticia that my throat was dry and she immediately offered me a coke. Even though I missed my snack break the Lord provided exactly what I needed; I am glad I stopped. Praise the Lord.
